Newsflash

From the President

As we head into the last month of 2016 we wonder where the year went. Hopefully you have added some more detail to your family tree and perhaps have solved one of your 'brick wall' mysteries.

A highlight of Family History Month was the presentation of the Nick Vine Hall Award to my Society. It is an honour to receive such a prestigious Award and I urge societies to consider participating next year. Its easy – go to the website www.affho.org > Nick Vine Hall Award > scroll to the bottom of the page > read the conditions of entry > select your best journal or magazine from 2016 > then download the entry form.

May I wish you and your family Seasons Greetings and a little time to spend on your family history.

Mandurah Family History Society: 30 Years of Achievement

The idea of a WAGS Mandurah Group was first mooted in the mid eighties, and following a successful membership drive, an inaugural meeting was held in the town library in August 1986. Membership for the new group grew strongly throughout the nineties and with it came the introduction of computers and then connection to the internet. The new millennium saw major changes; in 2000 the Mandurah branch of WAGS became an autonomous self governing unit and the name changed to the Mandurah Family History Society; in 2002 the society moved into new, larger dedicated premises at Library Precinct.

Whilst keeping pace with technology has been important in retaining and growing numbers so too has been the regular programme of member engagement. This has been achieved through events such as skill seminars, open days and the monthly guest speakers. A mentoring programme is in place to give help and support new members.

In her speech, as outgoing president, Barbara Mitting said:

“Mandurah Family History Society has been part of the community for thirty years and I am proud of our accomplishments in bringing family history to local people. It’s hard to believe that only fifteen or so years ago research was largely conducted through microfiche records together with printed materials. The world is now at our fingertips and we look forward to the next thirty years; Whilst family history is our raison d'être we believe this should be undertaken in an atmosphere of support and inclusiveness. We are a society but we also consider ourselves a family where friendship and mutual support are paramount”.

FOOTSTEPS IN TIME

Queensland's second State conference is to be held on the Gold Coast next May.

The months of planning are slowly coming to fruition. With over 20 speakers presenting a wide range of interesting papers, and an exhibitor's area of over 30 different stands it should prove a great weekend.

Helen Smith is presenting two Master Classes on the Friday afternoon: Introduction to DNA, and Advanced DNA. These are not part of the conference and can be purchased separately.

Already over half of the stands have been allocated, so if your group wishes to display and sell at the conference, please email for further details: footstepsintime2017@gmail.com You can share a stand, and there are reduced rates for stands for History Queensland members: $30 for the 3 days Friday lunchtime to Sunday lunchtime. Details on the website.

By signing up to our e-newsletter from the home page of the conference website (www.footstepsintime2017.com.au), you will be kept informed of new details as they emerge.

Early Bird registration $120 closes on 1st March 2017. All Early Bird registrants will go into a draw to win a 12 months World subscription generously donated by Findmypast.

Family Secrets, National Silences: A Sociological Study of Intergenerational Storytelling

Have you discovered secrets kept by past generations in your family history research?

A researcher from the University of Melbourne, sociologist Dr Ashley Barnwell, is seeking volunteers for an online survey. The project aims to better understand the social role of family secrets and the impact of social mores and policies on families over time. The survey consists of 7 questions and will take approximately 30 minutes to complete.

To participate please fill out the survey at: <http://www.familysecretsstudy.com>
